

Feedbacks from testing

1) Low Prototype

Time of testing: 20 min

- Manual Log in is toooooo long
- Logging in doesn't make sense with google because our password is numeric and googles password is alphanumeric. We need to decide if we keep the google option and change the password to accept letters and symbols or take the google option out but keep the password simple and easier to remember (numeric only).
- In Proto 2, client thinks it needs "please enter password" after the "please enter ur email" and before the "hi john!" with numbers screen.
- Put the categories inside expenses and make the home page cleaner.
- Client wants to know which screen appears after the end. Goes back to categories? Or home? I think it makes sense to go back to categories.
- Proto bank integration (and others) misses a done button. Client thinks is not too obvious it is the end.
- Proto payment needs to be blank (before the edp screen it needs a blank screen and also needs a done button)
- Connecting with friends also misses a done button at the end of the registration.
- The words were too small to read.
- Thinks it needs the name of the person after "lets create an account" eg. "lets create an account, Joe"
- "Checking code in email is annoying"
- "Verifying phone number with code is annoying". "God forbid"
- "Logging in with password and email all the time is annoying"
